This one-day training course will immerse you in training that results in a new life-saving skill set. This is a Train the Trainer Program.

Our focus at Silverback Safety and Training Solutions is to provide life-saving training with the necessary gear and equipment to survive a Mass Casualty Incident. From Schools and Businesses to Places of Worship. We provide dynamic and engaging training courses customized for you and your fellow lifesavers.

This training course triggers you to make quick, effective decisions in challenging real to life scenarios that will increase your ability to save those around you as well as yourself. It covers the psychology of critical incidents, crisis intervention from the tactical side, and tactics of responding medically to a critical incident by gaining an understanding of the how and whys of setting up a Unified Command Post, Casualty Collection Point, Rally, and Reunification establishment. There is a HEAVY focus on trauma care by learning the basic skill sets of life-saving interventions. We do this thru crawl, walk run learning. We show you how to properly use the medical supplies to treat various wounds and which wounds take priority. We then go hands-on in skill stations where the student will use the techniques taught. Next, we move to scenario-based simulations where the student breaks free of the victim mindset and moves into the survivor mindset. This is done by the students acting in the simulations and performing the correct interventions quickly and effectively under the guidance and encouragement of the Silverback staff.

However, it's not much help if you don't have the right medical gear to save lives. That's why we have included the option of our custom trauma pack in this course offering. We will use "dummy" packs to train with to simulate pulling and using the gear from the pack itself while under stress.

Attacks on Schools, Places of Worship & Businesses

Are becoming an almost norm in today's world

School attacks are almost an everyday news piece. Places of worship are not the safe sanctuary they once were. Business workplace violence is widespread. From a mentally disturbed student to a disgruntled employee or a domestic situation spilling into the workplace, the danger is real on all these sites. When the attack happens, most people will do anything they can to help others survive. Admirable intentions for sure, but the fact is that you will rise to the level of your training and the life-saving equipment you have. Take the bravest, best-intentioned person trying to help, but has little training and equipment. NOW give that same person some training and equipment. This difference in training and gear is the number of lives that you can help save!

As fast as Law Enforcement, Security, and Fire /EMS are coming to help you, NO ONE will beat the person already on the scene. What YOU do in those first few minutes will increase the survivability of those injured.

You don't have to be a paramedic to save a life!

You bring the heart and a willingness to learn, and we'll provide you with a new skill set. Of course, you won't be a trauma doc when we leave, but you will know how to respond to an active threat and safely, quickly, and effectively treat the wounded. We will help you shake the "victim mindset" and get you to embrace the "survivor mindset" by passing on knowledge and performing hands-on interventions.

This course has been delivered to thousands over the years by subject matter experts from Silverback STS, most of who are veterans, who currently function as FBI, SWAT Operators and Medics, TEMS Physicians and Nurses, and TECC trained Law Enforcement and Firefighters and EMS. For the mental aspect and stress-related in these situations, we have our own Ft. Hood massacre survivor who is a practicing psychologist and current SWAT team member in Ohio. She has much to offer in this arena. Our operators who teach you the skill sets will be by your side, step by step ensuring you walk away with the capability of saving lives should that day come for you and those you protect.
